

The National Tutoring Programme (NTP) makes high-quality tutoring available to schools to help disadvantaged pupils through two pillars: Tuition Partners, delivered through the Education Endowment Foundation; and Academic Mentors, by Teach First. Requests for Academic Mentors are currently closed.

NTP Tuition Partners

Through Tuition Partners, delivered by the Education Endowment Foundation (EEF), schools can access tutoring from an accredited tutoring provider which has passed a set of rigorous quality benchmarks.

Using this search tool, schools can select and contact the accredited provider they would like to receive tutoring from. Tutoring is subsidised, so that schools can purchase tutoring from approved Tuition Partners at a 75% reduction of their standard cost. Tutoring can take place online or in-person and will mainly be in small groups with some targeted 1:1 support. Tutoring is available for students aged 5-16.

There are 20 Tuition Partners operating across West Yorkshire. This provision includes specialist support for pupils with SEND, including providers that are able to support students in special schools. Please use the search tool to identify suitable providers for your students.

Contingency plans for remote learning

Despite the move to remote learning for a large number of pupils, the NTP will carry on providing services to disadvantaged children across the country.

Online tutoring can be provided to pupils at home or in school during lockdown, and tutoring can also be booked in for delivery when schools are fully reopened. As well as this, where possible and where it is safe to do so, the NTP will carry on delivering in-person tutoring to those who remain in school during lockdown.

Read more about how tutoring through NTP Tuition Partners has been adapted for remote learning and the latest lockdown.

How can I get my school involved?

You can find out more and find tutoring in your area on the NTP website. You can also keep up to date on NTP news via Twitter or LinkedIn.

To find out more, you can about schools' experiences of using the NTP through the school stories on the NTP website, including the latest story from Kingswood Academy in Hull, or watch a recording of the NTP's schools information webinar.

The NTP team would welcome any questions or comments regarding the NTP or either pillar. Please contact the team at info@nationaltutoring.org.uk